

Would you go to a food store and be forced to buy a loaf of bread, when all you wanted was milk? No. Then why should the American consumer be forced to pay for certain channels, when they don't want them. For example, I am paying for Spanish speaking channels, yet I don't speak Spanish. I would never pay money for this, but my cable provider does not allow me to choose which channels I want.